Lionesses blank fans at airport

THE Lionesses landed back in the UK after their World Cup final defeat – but they swerved fans gathered at the airport in the hopes of welcoming them home.

Around 40 people brought England flags and handmade banners to Heathrow Airport on Tuesday morning, with one group having arrived on Monday night, but the team are understood to have left via a private exit.

Others brought flowers for head coach Sarina Wiegman, while placards featured messages saying 'you all made us proud'.

Hope turned to disappointment when it was later confirmed by airport staff that the Lionesses had left the airport and the crowd soon dispersed.

A small number of fans watched at arrivals for a little longer just to be sure they had not missed out on any action.

Delivery driver knifed to death

POLICE have arrested four men on suspicion of murder after a young delivery driver was 'ambushed by a gang wielding weapons' and killed in Shrewsbury.

Officers were called after the 23-year-old was attacked in Coton Hill at 1.05pm on Monday.

Emergency services attended, but despite their best efforts the man was pronounced dead at the scene.

Four men aged 24, 22, 26 and 24, were arrested on suspicion of murder and remain in police custody being quizzed by detectives.

GODZILLA FEARS OVER JAP NUKE WATER RELEASE

THERE are fears of Godzilla-style mutants emerging from the deep after Japan announced it will start releasing treated radioactive water from the tsunami-hit Fukushima nuclear plant into the Pacific Ocean.

The decision comes weeks after the UN's nuclear watchdog approved the plan. Some 1.34 million tonnes of water – enough to fill 500 Olympic-size pools – have accumulated since the 2011 tsunami destroyed the plant.

The water will be released into the Pacific over 30 years after being filtered and diluted.

Authorities will request for the plant's operator to "promptly prepare" for the disposal to start on 24 August if weather and sea conditions are appropriate, Japan's Prime Minister Fumio Kishida said on Tuesday after a Cabinet meeting.

Mr Kishida had visited the plant on Sunday, prompting speculation the release was imminent.

The government has said that releasing the water is a necessary step in the lengthy and costly process of decommissioning the plant, which sits on the country's east coast, about 220km (137 miles) north-east of the capital Tokyo.

Japan has been collecting and storing the contaminated water in tanks for more than a decade, but space is running out.

But Japs fear the release could lead to horrific mutations, such as which led to the birth of fictional sea monster Godzilla.

Starmer: Uni costs too much

LABOUR leader Sir Keir Starmer says his dream of attending university would be stopped "cold in its tracks" today due to the cost.

The Opposition leader, who studied law at Leeds before going to Oxford, said students are being forced to decide on their future due to financial issues.

His comments suggest Labour could announce packages to help students with finance if they win the next election.

Sir Keir said: "There wasn't any spare money knocking around to fund me going to Leeds."

"I worked before I went and then got by on grants, as many young people do. I vividly remember carefully calculating rent, bills and food."

"Going to Leeds to study was a turning point for me."

"It will be a deep betrayal if one of the legacies of this Tory Government is university, apprenticeships and skills becoming the preserve of the wealthy."

UK borrows more money

UK government borrowing was lower than expected last month, but was still more than four times higher than a year ago and remained the fifth highest July borrowing since records began.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) said public sector borrowing, excluding state-owned banks, stood at £4.3 billion in July, £3.4 billion more than a year ago.

Most economists had expected borrowing of £4.9 billion in July, while the UK's official forecaster had predicted £6 billion.

The ONS added that net debt stood at £2.58 trillion at the end of July, equal to around 98.5% of the UK's gross domestic product (GDP) and 1.9% higher than a year earlier.

Docs call for change after Letby case

NHS BOSSSES 'MUST BE REGULATED'

NEVER AGAIN: Dr Brearey (top) wants action to stop another Letby

NHS managers should be held accountable for failings, according to doctors who repeatedly sounded the alarm about killer nurse Lucy Letby.

Concerns about the serial killer were not addressed for months before she was taken off frontline duties.

Senior doctors at the Countess of Chester Hospital, where the 33-year-old carried out her year-long killing spree on the neonatal unit, have said bosses should be regulated like doctors and nurses.

Dr Stephen Brearey, who

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

blew the whistle on Letby in 2015, said that NHS managers need to be held accountable when things go wrong.

Asked if he would like to see regulation of administrators, he said: "Absolutely. Because doctors and nurses all have their regulatory bodies that we have to answer to."

"We see managers who have no apparent accountability for what they do in our trusts, and they move to other trusts, and you worry about their future actions. There isn't any system to make them accountable for them to justify their actions."

He added: "You go to senior colleagues with a problem and you come away confused and anxious because you start to realise they're seeing you as a problem rather than the concern that you have."

Whistleblowers

His colleague, Dr Ravi Jayaram, added: "As far as I can tell the people in senior NHS management positions, there is no robust system of accountability of appraisal. This is the culture in the NHS and it has to change."

A doctors' union has also called for the law to change to protect NHS whistleblowers.

The Hospital Consultants Association said there should be an independent body where whistleblowers are registered and that it should become a criminal offence if those who speak out face retribution.

There are increasing calls for the inquiry into her crimes to be given statutory footing, which would mean witnesses would be compelled to attend to give evidence.

It comes as Letby has begun her whole-life sentence in prison for the murder of seven babies and the attempted murders of six more.

FORMER PRESIDENT TO FACE NEW ELECTION CHARGES

TRUMP TO TURN HIMSELF IN

DONALD Trump has said he plans to turn himself in on Thursday to a court in Georgia to face charges of election interference.

A judge in Atlanta who is overseeing the former president's case has set bail at $200,000 (£157,000).

The agreement says Mr Trump can remain free pending trial so long as he does not attempt to intimidate witnesses.

Mr Trump denies 13 charges, including racketeering and false statements.

He and the 18 others accused in this case had previously been given until noon on Friday to appear at Fulton County Jail for processing.

The county sheriff has said they will all be treated like any other defendants, which could mean Mr Trump is fingerprinted and has his mugshot taken.

"The defendant shall perform no act to intimidate any person known to him or her to be a co-defendant or witness in this case," the court statement said.

I would lick her legs any day!

By ABBEY HAY news@sundaysport.co.uk

BRITNEY SPEARS showed she was getting over her impending divorce by getting a male pal to LICK her leg!

The Hit Me Baby One More Time poppet threw herself a wild divorce party by inviting six of her 'favourite boys' to join the bash.

The 41-year-old pop star – who boasts 42.1M Instagram followers – shared bits of video footage of a guy called Dave attempting to lick her leg from the knee to the thigh as the cameraman instructed him: 'Start at the boot, bro.'

The clip then abruptly cut to Britney being held up by five shirtless men while poolside as she exclaimed: 'Okay cool!'

"When you go to meet up with a so called "friend" and drive an hour for chicken!" Spears captioned her Instagram post.

"So what does a b* like me do? I put my green dress on and show up at my friends! I invited my favourite boys over and played all night!"

It's not clear what she meant but insiders say Britney might have gone bonkers again.

That didn't stop trolls making vile comments when pics appeared on the website of the hate-filled Daily Mail.

One, in mangled English, said that if he was asked to lick Britney, he would not start on her leg – suggesting he would plunge his tongue into Brit's yawning and moist feminine intimacy.

Another referred to Britney's "stench hole", though it was unclear if he meant her yawning and moist feminine intimacy or her puckered and winking rear privacy.

A pal said: "Can Britney not do anything without someone wanting to put something inside her, or shower her with spunk?"

Hawaii nude pic fundraiser gets censored

A SEXY influencer has been banned from selling nude pics for $10-a-pop to raise money for victims of the Hawaii wildfires.

Website GoFundMe took down the fundraiser OnlyFans model and Honolulu resident Mariah Casillas, 22, launched.

"Gofundme took down my account but that isn't going to stop me from doing what I can to help the people of Maui," Casillas, also known online as Lavaxgrll, tweeted.

"I'll be making a list of nonprofits to donate towards instead, you can still send me your screenshots!"

A GoFundMe spokesperson said: "This fundraiser was removed from our platform and all donors have been refunded."

Casillas was quick to point out that she wasn't sending the nudes through GoFundMe. She said she was up to $7,800 in donations.

Eyeties get an eyeful of Bianca

CALLS have been made for Italian police to punish Kanye West's new 'wife' Bianca Censori following her latest eye-popping display in the conservative Catholic country.

The Australian architect, 28, has been fuelling controversy in Italy for 'going around virtually naked' over the past month, and was back to her old tricks on Sunday when she stepped out for dinner with Kanye, 46, in an outrageous nude catsuit.

Bianca went braless in the skintight all-in-one and at some points forced to cover her nipples with a black cross-body bag, while Kanye hid under a black snood teamed with a baggy black jacket and trousers.

Online critics have since implored local authorities to punish Bianca for her wardrobe choices.

"I hope Italy kicks them both out of the country. They don't need this pair polluting it," one angry user wrote.

2,000 pieces nicked from Brit Museum

THE number of stolen artefacts from the British Museum is "closer to 2,000" with the total value of missing pieces thought to run into "millions of pounds".

Last week the British Museum announced that items from its collection were found to be "missing, stolen or damaged" and an unnamed member of staff has been sacked.

Legal action is being taken by the museum against the individual and police are investigating.

The museum has not specified how many items have been stolen or detailed what the missing items are, saying only that there were "small pieces" including "gold jewellery and gems of semi-precious stones and glass dating from the 15th century BC to the 19th century AD."

Prisoners smoking Y-fronts to get high

LAGS HIT THE SKIDMARKS

PRISONERS are getting high smoking Y-FRONTs soaked in Liquid Spice.

Lags at HMP Rochester in Kent – home to around 700 lags – get pals on the outside to send them clothes, letters, photos and birthday cards soaked in the zombie drug.

The items can then be ripped up and sold.

However, prison chiefs have got wise – photocopying letters before passing on the copies to lags.

This had led to inmates being sent in parcels of pants and socks and other items of clothing soaked in Spice.

Prison chiefs, having cottoned on and now send all clothing parcels to be scanned for drugs.

As a result, inmates have been left struggling to find pants or socks to wear after contaminated clothing is confiscated and destroyed. This has led to a surge in complaints, a whopping 3,177 in the past year alone with 660 of the whinges about property being withheld.

A report into the jail stated there had been a 'huge rise' in complaints.

Among them include not getting clothing parcels, birthday cards, letters, and photos after they tested positive for Spice.

Scanned

The report states: "All personal mail is photocopied before it reaches a prisoner, to limit the amount of drug-impregnated paper entering the prison."

"Birthday cards etc have to be sent via a mail company such as Moon Pig."

"Items of clothing such as labels, socks and underwear are also scanned as these can be sources of drugs."

EMILY Ratajkowski showed off her stunning bikini body in a new series of Instagram snaps.

The model, 32, flashed her cleavage and toned frame in a black and red patterned two-piece from her swimwear line, Inamorata.

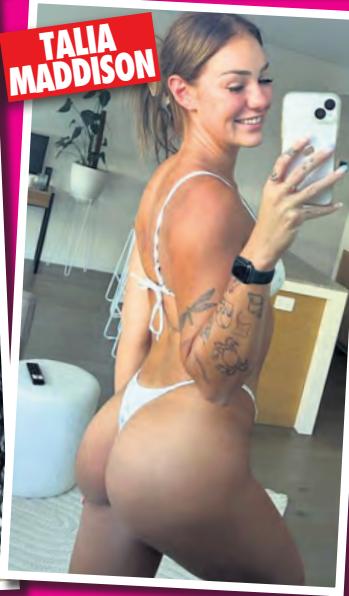

And she had her thong right up her arse crack in the kitchen photoshoot.

A fan said: "If she were I my kitchen, I'd ask her to piss in my gravy. Or custard if I was making pudding."

Em's going for a thong!

Mum cut off her lover's head and doused him with acid...

BASHED:
Michaels hit lover with stick

HE ASKED ME TO LICK HIS FILTHY ARSEHOLE!

A WOMAN chopped off her lover's head and doused him with acid – after he asked her to LICK his ARSEHOLE!

Devyn Michaels, 45, is charged with killing Johnathan James Willette, 47, after his headless body was discovered by his mother in their home.

When police entered the bedroom, they smelled chemicals emanating from the smoking body.

His head was not in the room and has still not been found.

Drunk

The victim's mum told police that she had last seen her son the night before around 10 p.m. and had last seen Michaels later while she was doing dishes in the kitchen.

Michaels told the mother that Willette was drunk in bed and the couple planned to get up early in the morning to register their kids at school.

Nude bike ride banned

SEVEN stages of a "nude Tour de France" have been banned for public indecency – a move that climate activists said was "state intimidation".

The cyclists are taking part in the World Naked Bike Ride, an annual event launched in 2004 in London and which last year crossed the capital without raising eyebrows.

However, since the tour kicked off in Nantes, west France, on August 8, local authorities have prohibited seven stages.

"Those blocking the tour have cited the penal code that 'equates nudism to sexual exhibitionism on the public causeway,'" said François Feunteun, president of the Nudism Movement, organisers of the ride.

Public indecency is punishable by up to a year in prison and a £12,800 fine in France.

By NELSON SAUVIN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Michaels told authorities that she had left the house that morning.

Cops later found Willette's wallet, keys, social security card, and his phone with blood on it in his home.

A polygraph test showed a "significant reaction" when she was asked about Willette's murder.

When police asked why she had a strong reaction, Michaels claimed that Willette was abusive toward her.

The woman then allegedly told police in Henderson, Nevada, that she bashed her boyfriend in the head with a wooden stick when he "asked her to rim his ass" while she was rubbing his back in bed.

Michaels claimed she never wanted to kill Willette — only hurt him enough to land him in the hospital.

She never admitted to cutting off Willette's head.

It was not clear if her allegations of abuse were credible.

KELLY Rowland showed off her toned body – and a great slab of side tit – in her latest sizzling hot photo shoot on Instagram.

The 42-year-old songstress wore a revealing olive green gown that left very little to the imagination, from the side profile.

"What's it giving?" the Bills, Bills, Bills singer captioned the photo, presenting the question to her 15.7 million Instagram followers.

Kelly was recently announced as one of the main headliners for Artscape, a free music festival in Baltimore that's returning in September after a three-year hiatus.

Best known as being one-third of the singing trio that made up Destiny's Child, Kelly has since gone on to establish a successful solo career.

And here are some more babes giving a flash of side teat...

Dentist killed wife on Africa hunting trip

A MONEYBAGS dentist was sentenced to life behind bars for killing his wife during an African safari and then cashing in on her death.

Larry Rudolph was hit with the sentence after being convicted of fatally shooting his wife of 34 years, Bianca Rudolph, in the heart on their last morning in Zambia where the couple went hunting.

Rudolph, of Pennsylvania, killed his wife in cold blood, as part of a plan to receive life insurance payments and begin a new life with longtime mistress Lori Milliron. "Even Judas would be afraid to be in your company," the victim's brother Vincent Finizio told Rudolph.

Rudolph took the shotgun used in the heartless crime and placed it back in its soft case to make it appear that his wife shot herself by accident while packing.

He's required to pay nearly £4m in restitution and another £1.6m in fines, the court ruled.

Pervs told to stop bonking on GRAVES

POLICE are out to stop "sexual activity" on tombstones in Ipswich.

Suffolk Police made the recommendations in a letter responding to plans to redevelop Arras Square in the town.

The area has high levels of crime and anti-social behaviour, including people using raised tombstones for sexual activity, drugs and alcohol, the force said.

As part of the council's "Turning our Town Around" project, residents and business voted for the area, which is home to the redeveloped St Stephen's Church music venue, to be redeveloped.

Police were offering their opinion on ways to "design out crime".

This included "protection of raised tombstones" which the force said were "sometimes the site of sexual activity".

Fury as serial perv dodges jailBOOK SHOP BUM SNIFFER BACK ON THE STREETS

WARNING:
Calese
Crowder is

A SERIAL creep is back on the streets after dozens of arrests for sex offences – even though he was caught on camera sniffing a woman's ARSE!

Calese Carron Crowder, 36, was identified as the man seen on viral TikTok videos who appears to follow women around a Burbank Barnes & Noble bookstore in Burbank, California, "sniffing" their backsides.

Last week Crowder was accused of peeping into a Glendale home, and a Barnes & Noble shopper posted her encounter with him on TikTok just two days later.

He was arrested but walked free after a soppy California judge placed him on probation.

Crowder previously served time in state prison on burglary and robbery charges and had been sentenced in February to a year in jail for indecent exposure in Santa Clarita.

However, Crowder was released early anyway.

After Crowder's rapid release, a victim named Michaela Witter posted a TikTok video warning neighbours to "please be careful".

"Is this real?" she said. "I think he maybe spent three days in jail. They can't do anything until he's done something really bad to someone, and I'm honestly scared that that person is going to be me."

"If you're in the area, please, please be careful."

Witter caught her encounter with Crowder on video and shared it to TikTok last week, before at least 20 other women contacted her with similar stories.

Cops have been chasing Crowder for years and Los Angeles County Jail records show he has been booked in there 41 times.

Shag to keep your marbles

HAVING great sex as an OAP may stop you going gaga, a study suggests.

Researchers found that men and women aged between 62 and 74 who described their sex life as 'very pleasurable and satisfying' had better cognitive health scores five years later than those who had rated their bedroom behaviour less enthusiastically.

The results could be due to the stress-relieving benefits of good sex, as well as the release of the pleasure hormone, dopamine.

Boffins said: "Older adults who enjoy satisfying sexual activities may experience decreased stress that may in turn protect their brain."

PERVERT HAD TUG IN FRONT OF CHILD

A 28-YEAR-OLD man has been arrested after being seen furiously masturbating on a popular walking trail.

The incident occurred when a mother and her child came across 28-year-old Matthew McGovern with his pants down and penis exposed.

They had been out walking on the busy footpaths in the area of Wesley Drive in Shelton, Connecticut.

The man appeared to be masturbating, according to police.

Shelton cops arrived and saw McGovern still had his pants down.

He was taken into custody and charged with public indecency and breach of peace.

He was released on bail and will appear in court in September.

A police source said: "I will not have the good people of Shelton inconvenienced by goddamn perverts spilling their seed on the ground like Onan in the Good Book!"

BUSTY BABES GOING FOR GOLD

By ANNE COATES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

KIM Kardashian showed off her incredible figure as she posed in skimpy gold swimwear last week while enjoying a swim in Italy.

The TV personality, 42, took to Instagram to share a host of eye-popping bikini snaps from her trip to Puglia.

She flaunted her big tits in a metallic gold two-piece which showed off her ample assets as she enjoyed a nighttime swim.

But Kim is not the only babe who looks a million dollars while wearing gold.

And thankfully, there are plenty of scorchers who have posed in gold swimwear with their naked boobs bare for all to see.

Enjoy...

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Why did they not just call the police?

QUESTIONS:
Why was she not stopped earlier?

DUE to unforeseen staffing issues - well, they're on strike again - this morning's lesson has been changed, children.

Rather than force feeding diversity and inclusion crap down your necks as though you're geese being fattened for foie gras, instead you will be taking part in a quiz.

Just to let you know there can be no cheating, no use of mobile phones and no comparing, starting...now!

- 1. YOU have noticed that an alarming number of infant patients are dying on the hospital ward where you work as a nurse. Do you:
- Share your concerns discreetly with a fellow staff member?
 - Take your fears to your immediate line manager?
 - Make an amusing dance video for TikTok?
 - CALL THE POLICE?

- 2. YOU work as a paediatric consultant in a hospital neonatal unit where an unusually high number of your patients have sadly died. Do you:
- Think that nurse's bottom looks quite fit in that otherwise ill-fitting blue ward garb?
 - Fret about your golf handicap?
 - Check your watch to make sure you haven't spent more than an hour with NHS patients while your rich private clients are waiting down the road?
 - CALL THE POLICE?

- 3. YOU are employed as part of the executive team of a leading hospital where a worrying number of infant babies have died in uncertain circumstances. Do you:
- Listen to the concerns expressed by your on-ward consultants and nursing staff and nod several times in a non-committal way?
 - Wonder if the new artwork ordered for the executive suite mezzanine waiting area is as diverse and inclusive and non-binary as you had demanded?
 - Send Jeeves to your money barns to recount exactly how much money you'd taken in wages from a hospital's coffers without even applying a plaster?
 - CALL THE POLICE?

- 4. YOU are caught like a rabbit in the headlights when nasty people from the bastard press start asking questions about how long you allowed a killer to work. Do you:
- Immediately blame the press for having "blood on your hands" for highlighting how fatally ineffective you are?
 - Reach for the Penguin Book of Platitudes and quickly sift through to the well-thumbed page entitled Lessons have been learned?
 - Order an inquiry set to start no sooner than at least a year with an extended 14-year timeframe so that by the end most parties will be either retired or dead?
 - CALL THE POLICE?

- 5. YOU sit on a "trust" that oversees the executive team who run a local leading hospital where babies on the neonatal ward are being killed. Do you:

- Decide to think about all this after lunch, which you're hoping is Coronation Chicken sandwiches but not with too many sultanas?

- Wonder how swiftly you can shift the blame onto Brexit, white people, the patriarchy, climate boiling, slavery, and the Tories?

- Muse over whether or not to get one of those sit-down lawnmowers for the east wing garden, or to simply rewild it with grizzly bears and pumas?

- CALL THE POLICE?

- 6. YOU'RE a convicted serial killer who can't be fussed turning up to her own sentencing hearing. Do you...

Dog eats passport and causes dream wedding nightmare

A COUPLE'S dream Italian wedding has been thrown into disarray after their dog chewed up a passport — just days before the ceremony.

Donato Frattaroli and his fiancee had gone to city hall to fill out marriage forms, just days before the August 31 ceremony.

When they returned to their home hours later, they found their mischievous year-and-a-half-old golden retriever, Chickie, had eaten most of Frattaroli's passport.

The couple are now scrambling to get a replacement, asking local officials in Boston, Massachusetts, for help.

"I'm a little stressed," Frattaroli said. "Keep my fingers crossed and, hopefully, everything will work out."

The pair are due to fly to Italy this Friday.

The groom-to-be said if he can't get a passport before the flight, he'll stay at home while his fiance and wedding guests go to Italy without him.

If he still can't get a passport in time for the wedding, he said he'll just meet the wedding party when they return to the US.

Fact me!

HUMANS cannot walk in a straight line without looking at something.

Loses finger in library book

A WOMAN had her finger sliced off — returning a book to the library!

Barbara Haverly put the book in the library returns drop-box when its swinging metal door snapped back and trapped her finger.

"I was in shock," Haverly said. "It hit an artery, so there was blood squirting everywhere."

Haverly, who is a registered nurse, noticed that part of her left hand's middle finger had fallen into the box.

Although she took the fingertip with her to the hospital, in Mount Dora, Florida, surgeons were unable to sew it back on due to multiple severed nerve endings.

She said: "I wasn't taking any risks, I was just returning a book at the library."

"And now I'm permanently disfigured."

Louise has us in 00-heaven!

WE'RE used to seeing glamour legend Louise Hodges UNDRESSED — but how about seeing her ANDRESSED?

The Sport favourite channelled Dr No beauty Ursula Andress in this raunchy new photo shoot to promote her OnlyFans page.

Louise wrote on her Twitter feed: "I'm feeling like a Bond girl today. Join me at OnlyFans. Love Louise xx."

Last night Louise told us: "As everyone knows, I'm a proper exhibitionist and I love dressing up."

"But what a lot of people don't know is that I'm also a massive fan of the James Bond films and Dr No is my all-time favourite."

"It was the very first Bond movie and really one for the purists. Sean Connery was far and away the best Bond — cool, yet hard as nails."

"I've always loved Ursula Andress and her part in the film as Honey Ryder was super."

"But did you know that her dialogue in the movie was spoken by another actress?"

"The voice you hear in the movie is actually a German woman called Nikki van der Zyl."

HORSE SHAGGER DODGES PRISON

A BEAST caught hanging out of the back of a HORSE has DODGED a jail term.

Jackson Kelley, 21, was arrested after police said he was caught on CCTV camera entering the Turner Hill Equestrian stables at about 4:30 a.m.

Kelley was seen on video luring a horse from its stall with grain.

While the horse ate the grain, cops said he had sex with the animal.

By ABBEY HAY news@sundaysport.co.uk

Owner, Hillary Swarr, said the horse was checked by a vet and was found to be uninjured. She said the man, later identified as Kelley, had unplugged numerous cameras — but missed the one on which he was recorded.

Swarr said a stable employee was alerted remotely about an alarm going off when a stall door opened and saw the video feed live — but no one could get to the stables before the suspect left. Kelley turned himself in several days later.

Kelley pleaded guilty to animal cruelty during a court hearing in Boston Massachusetts.

Judge Beverly Cannone sentenced him to four years of supervised probation and required him to undergo psychiatric treatment for his perversions.

In addition, Cannone also ordered Kelley to have his medication assessed and possibly adjusted, to not drink or use drugs and to have no contact with anyone involved in the case.

Also, the judge ordered Kelley to have no contact with animals, including working with them or volunteering with organisations that work with animals.

A second charge of sexual conduct with an animal was left on file for four years.

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Ashleigh,

ME and my friend are both blonde, 18, and adore having wild sex. We've always wanted to take part in an all-out orgy and be fed by loads of men.

Well, the other Saturday night we got our wish after meeting a gang of lads in our local pub.

After a few drinks and a good laugh, they invited us back to one of their houses.

My knickers were soaking with my fanny-juice by the time three of them stripped me and I soon had cocks in every hole.

We both ended up shagging all of them at one time or another over the night.

But since then these blokes have been horrible to us, calling us slags.

We're thinking of moving away. Do you think we should?

CF, Notts

Ashleigh says...

NO, why should you? You like sex – so what? It's not a crime.

Dear Ashleigh,

MY wife and I recently had a baby and we haven't had sex for a while. So I've been shagging her mum instead.

She recently got divorced and has still got a lovely body. She's brilliant in bed and loves giving me blowjobs.

She's more adventurous in bed than my wife. She especially likes to be taken doggy-style while I rub her clit with a vibrator.

She also likes to be shagged while she's tied to the bed with silk scarves. She's also dressed as a kinky nurse.

She started sucking my cock before bent her over a table and started pumping her. We then went upstairs and screwed all afternoon.

I should feel like the happiest man in the world because I'm shagging a nymphomaniac older woman, but I feel so guilty.

If she wasn't my wife's mum I think I'd be okay. In an ideal world, I'd like to have both. What do you think I should do?

MG, Derby

Ashleigh says...

YOUR idea of an ideal world doesn't exist. You have to decide between the two.

Sorry I bonked pal's fella

Dear Ashleigh,

A FEW weeks ago I went to stay with an old college pal and her fella.

She and her boyfriend met me at the train station and the three of us went off to their new home.

We enjoyed a few drinks before sitting down for a good meal together.

As the night wore on, my pal became more and more tired and ended up falling asleep in her armchair.

I was sitting beside her bloke and I was more than a bit startled when his hand started to tease my thigh.

We left my chum dozing and went to the kitchen, where her bloke started smogging me.

And that was it. No more, or less, than our gang used to get up to at student parties.

The following morning I was in the shower and feeling horny, when the cubicle door opened and her boyfriend seized me in his arms and gave me a rodding over the bath.

It was fantastic, instant gratification, but although I enjoyed it I can't help but fear what might happen when I next visit.

How can I avoid breaking my pal's heart?

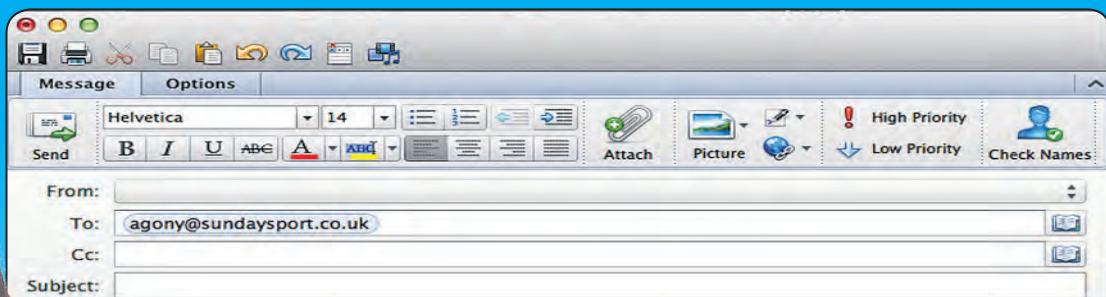

EC, Merseyside

Ashleigh says...

IF you can't trust yourself, don't even think about visiting again but keep in touch by email or letter.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week ASHLEIGH GEE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I worry I might keep riding my biker boss

Dear Ashleigh,

I'VE just been offered the chance of a new job in a clothes shop.

My mate used to work there and she told me the boss was quite a stud and she'd ridden him on quite a few occasions.

She said he's married but is quite indiscreet about his roving eye and is always on the sniff for a fresh conquest.

Since I hadn't had a lot of luck with my husband lately (he's always drunk or watching football), I decided this could be a way of killing two birds with one stone.

So I went for the interview. I wore my sexiest outfit – a short skirt that would ride up high enough to show off my stocking tops, a pair of high-heels and a low-cut top.

I was pretty excited to meet this sexy guy, and when I did I wasn't disappointed.

He was nearing 50 I'd say but still well fit, and rides a big old Triumph motorbike.

The interview went really well and I caught him ogling my long legs and my cleavage more than a few times.

Gusset

Afterwards he insisted on taking me out to lunch at a country pub.

I rode on the back of his powerful bike and by the time we got to the pub, I was already wet in the gusset. Instead of going in the pub, I led him into the garden area at the back where we hid behind some trees.

I pulled down his leather trousers to get a better look at his cock...and it was MASSIVE – at least nine inches long. I licked it tentatively before wrapping my lips around it and sucking for all I was worth.

He told me I had great legs and not to waste any more time, to get them spread. I bent over a bench and when he entered my dripping fanny I was in absolute heaven.

He kept pumping away until I could take no more and I could barely walk afterwards.

I don't know whether to take the job or not because I know I'll be unfaithful again to my hubby all the time.

If he found out it would destroy him – but I don't think I can resist my older biker man.

Any advice please?

LK, Bristol

Ashleigh says...

TAKE the job but try to settle for the occasional shag.

Dear Ashleigh,

I'M a student and, as you can imagine, money is tight, so to save on the rent, I've been shagging my fit older landlord.

I knew from the start that he fancied me as he often complimented me on my figure and said: "Blondes with big tits are just my type."

He's a great shag and I've really been enjoying the sex. Now he's getting kinky and I'm worried I like it too much.

A couple of weeks ago he asked to tie me up, gagged me and spanked me before he spanked all over my back.

And the last time we were together he asked to tie me up again so he could take me up the arse.

It was some of the best sex I have ever had and I have never had more orgasms before.

But I am worried that when it comes to vanilla sex with lads my own age I won't enjoy it anymore because I am hooked on being kinky with my older landlord.

Am I right to worry?

HAPPIER: Rohan Smith

Rhinos on right track says Smith

LEEDS head coach Rohan Smith hailed his side's strength in adversity after they moved within two points of the Betfred Super League play-off zone with a battling 24-22 win over Warrington.

Late tries from Luke Hooley and James Bentley swung a topsy-turvy game in the Rhinos' favour but they still came a fingertip away from defeat when Matt Duffy fumbled a golden opportunity to win it on the hooter.

Smith hopes his squad is starting to shape up for their customary late-season surge.

"We've had a lot of distractions this year but what I respect of the crew in that room at the moment is they are not looking to use them as excuses at any point," he said.

"They're just getting on with it. If anything the group is pulling tighter together. We've been in the trenches a lot this year so we're going to need that resilience and that togetherness next week at Huddersfield."

Smith conceded his side were far from perfect as Wires had much the better of the opening period and might have been more than four points ahead at the interval if Danny Walker had converted another excellent chance.

"We've probably played better and not got the result, and we've found a way to win there today," said a relieved Smith.

"We showed good resilience at times when the wave was going the other way. In the end we showed enough execution under pressure and in crucial moments, and the goal-kicking from Rhys Martin was critical."

Wires had been on the front foot for long periods after Duffy's second minute opener, and Stefan Ratchford's clever kick should have sent the Australian over to snatch the points.

Despite the chance going begging, Warrington's interim head coach Gary Chambers sprang to the defence of Duffy who had also surged 60 metres to send Matty Ashton over in the opening period.

"I thought Duffy was outstanding," said Chambers. "He can't be defined by one mistake at the end because of what he did generally through the game."

"I was made up for him. The kid takes it tough when he doesn't play well."

TOFFEES AND LEEDS VOW TO TAKE ACTION ON ANA RACISM STORM

Everton condemn vile abuse aimed at midfielder by social media trolls

EVERTON have condemned "vile" racist abuse aimed at midfielder Amadou Onana on social media and vowed to track down the alleged perpetrator.

The Premier League club released a statement on Monday revealing the 22-year-old Senegal-born Belgium international had been targeted and reiterating its zero-tolerance stance on discrimination.

An investigation is under way with the Toffees ready to support police in any action they may take.

The statement read: "Everton Football Club strongly condemns any form of racist and discriminatory abuse towards our players."

"The club is aware of a racist post targeted at Amadou Onana. Such abuse is vile and will not and should not be tolerated.

"The club is conducting an investigation to identify the individual responsible and will also be supporting police with any investigation they conduct."

"We must all take a zero-tolerance stance by reporting such behaviour to social media platforms and the authorities. Racism has no place online, in our stadia or in our communities."

Onana, a £34million signing from French club Lille last summer, played the full 90 minutes in Sunday's 4-0 Premier League defeat at Aston Villa.

The defensive midfielder has been linked with a move to Manchester United in recent weeks.

A Merseyside Police spokesperson said: "Merseyside Police can confirm an investigation is underway after it was reported racist comments were made on social media directed towards an Everton player."

"We are committed to working closely with football clubs and 'Kick it Out', English football's equality and inclusion organisation, to tackle racism and discrimination in football."

Misplaced

"It is appalling to think that anyone would use an online platform to target anyone with abuse based on their race and we condemn such behaviour in the strongest terms."

"We take all reports of hate crime extremely seriously, and I would like to remind social media users that any belief that they can maintain anonymity online to commit offences is misplaced."

"Offences committed online, including malicious communications and any inappropriate behaviour, can be investigated."

Meanwhile, SkyBet Championship Leeds revealed want-away striker Willy Gnonto had also been subjected to online abuse and confirmed that police were investigating.

A statement on the club's official website said: "A racist comment made on social media towards Willy Gnonto has been brought to our attention."

"Leeds United condemn this action in the strongest possible way."

"An investigation is now under way and the police have been notified."

"Racism will not be tolerated at Leeds United."

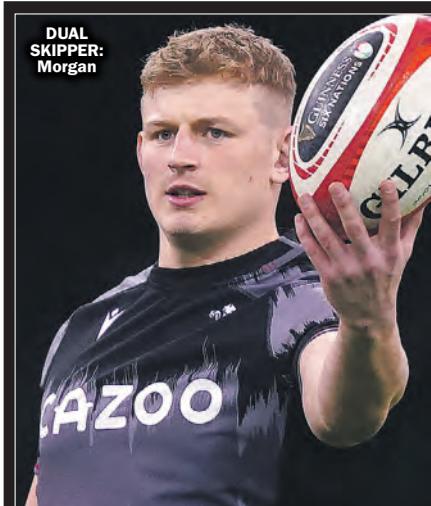

"The club will support Willy and anyone else connected to our club who experiences racism or any form of discrimination."

Dragons pick two captains for World Cup

WALES boss Warren Gatland has broken new ground in his long and successful coaching career by naming co-captains for the Rugby World Cup.

Gatland has turned to Ospreys forwards Jac Morgan and Dewi Lake to lead a 33-strong squad that includes recent international newcomers in centre Mason Grady, fly-half Sam Costelow and prop Corey Domachowski.

But there is no place for scrum-half Kieran Hardy, with Gatland deciding to select just two nines in Tomos Williams and Gareth Davies.

On the captaincy, Gatland said: "They are two young players who will complement each other. They are good mates and have a good relationship.

"It is something that I have never done before and it is a good opportunity for them. They have got a big future ahead of them."

"Whoever is in charge on the day, he will make the final decision. The captain has the final decision on the day."

Hooker Lake, meanwhile, said: "Me and Jac have played together for a long time – (Wales) Under-20s, Ospreys and we have roomed together through these mini camps.

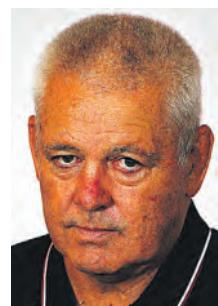

"We are quite straight and honest with each other. If something needs to be said, we are happy to say it, coming from a place of friendship.

"I couldn't think of anyone better to share this role with. I can't be the man in any way."

And flanker Morgan added: "Dewi is great as a captain. He leads from the front and when something needs to be said, he says it.

"I probably would have never have thought of this four years ago. It's great to be here with him."

Gatland has cut 15 players from his training squad, including the likes of Hardy, Ospreys wing Alex Cuthbert, Gloucester centre Max Llewellyn, Dragons lock Ben Carter and Scarlets back-row forward Taine Plumtree.

And Gatland confirmed that Costelow would provide scrum-half cover for the tournament, which Wales begin against Fiji in Bordeaux on Sept 10.

"We'd had a discussion with the players right from the start that the tipping point could be that we take two nines or three tens," Gatland said.

"We know that we have taken a risk. Other teams have done the same thing.

"You have got a pinching point in the squad somewhere in terms of the numbers, but those nines have been pretty robust and we are confident they are going to be fine."

Fly-half Gareth Anscombe and number eight Taufile Faletau have won Gatland's vote despite not featuring during Wales' three-game August schedule due to injuries.

And he has named Lake – who is recovering from a knee injury – and fellow hooker Ryan Elias, plus lock Dafydd Jenkins, who at 20 is the squad's youngest player.

Centre George North, meanwhile, will head to his fourth World Cup, putting himself in illustrious company alongside the likes of Jonny Wilkinson, Brian O'Driscoll, Dan Carter and Richie McCaw.

ABUSED:
Gnonto

has asked to leave the Elland Road club in the wake of last season's relegation from the top flight and was linked with a move to Everton earlier this summer.

A spokesperson for West Yorkshire Police said: "We have been notified by Leeds United of a racist comment made on social media towards Wilfried Gnonto and we are working with the club to investigate the matter.

Vile

"We will always take reports of hate crime seriously and do everything we can to support victims and take positive action against offenders."

Kick It Out head of player engagement Troy Townsend added his voice to the chorus of disapproval.

He said in a statement: "The optimism of a new season has yet again been dampened by the vile spectre of online abuse.

Over the past few days Wilfried Gnonto, Amadou Onana and Ivan Toney have spoken out after facing repugnant racism online, but we know this is sadly just the tip of the iceberg.

Last season reports of online abuse to Kick It Out rose by an alarming 279 per cent. This cannot be another year where discrimination is allowed to run rampant online and yet we have seen little inclination from social media companies to take this issue seriously.

Until they do, victims of online abuse will continue to pay a heavy price for this inexcusable inaction.

We would urge anyone in the game who experiences or witnesses discriminatory abuse to report it to us at Kick It Out."

Jolly William Sweet for run in the Ebor

ANTE-POST favourite Sweet William is guaranteed a run as 39 stand their ground ahead of Saturday's Sky Bet Ebor at York.

The prestigious handicap, which serves as an automatic qualifier for the Melbourne Cup is the highlight of the final day of the Ebor meeting and a maximum of 22 will head to post for a contest which has prize-fund of £500,000.

John and Thady Gosden's progressive four-year-old finds himself at the top of the betting following three-straight victories and will be bidding to add to the fine record of the Clarehaven team in the contest having won the race recently with Muntahaa in 2018 and Trawlerman 12 months ago.

It was thought Phillipa Cooper's thriving stayer may struggle to make the final field for the contest, but those doubts have been allayed following Monday's confirmation stage.

On the other hand, one horse who always had zero worries about making the final 22 is Saeed bin Suroor's consistent performer Live Your Dream, who arrives on the Knavesmire on the back of victory at Newmarket's July Festival and is set to carry top-weight.

"He's done well since he won his last race and the Ebor has been the plan since Newmarket," said Bin Suroor.

"He's in good form, he's working well, he's one more piece to do but everything has gone well before the Ebor."

"The one-mile-six trip suits him well – also the track, he's run well at York before."

"He is good enough to run well over a mile and a half like at Royal Ascot and he almost won over two and a quarter miles in the Cesarewitch Trial, he can run over many trips but the Ebor trip is his best."

"He's going to have top weight which won't be easy, but we'll give him a chance and see how he goes."

Willie Mullins could look for a second Ebor with his Royal Ascot runner-up Absurdo and Jackfinbar, while there are eight Irish-trained horses in contention including Joseph O'Brien's smart hurdler Nusret who won a 'win and you're in' contest at the Curragh in June.

Andrew Balding's Scampi booked his ticket when winning the track's Jorvik Handicap, while Sir Michael Stoute's Real Dream and Milton Harris' Scriptwriter are two others who feature high up the betting lists.

Meanwhile, Marshman will miss the rest of the season having suffered a suspected pelvic injury while tuning up for an intended outing in the Coolmore Wootton Bassett Nunthorpe Stakes at York.

Trained by Karl Burke, Marshman has won three of his nine career outings, striking Group Three gold in France earlier this season, which gave hope the colt could take high rank in the sprinting division this term.

Following a below-par effort in Sandown's Coral Charge in July, the three-year-old was being prepared for a crack at the Knavesmire Group One on Friday and a return to a track at which he has twice performed with real credit – including when second in the Gimcrack Stakes at the Ebor meeting last season.

ALL THE TOP TIPS FOR TODAY'S RACING

PADDINGTON

PADDINGTON A BEAR NECESSITY

PADDINGTON can keep the Group 1 bandwagon rolling with victory in the Juddmonte International Stakes, the feature event on the opening day of York's Ebor meeting.

Aidan O'Brien's three-year-old has been a force of nature this term, leaving a low-key juvenile campaign behind him with six consecutive victories – the last four all being at the highest level.

The Siyouni colt has shown he is equally as capable from a mile to 10 furlongs in the process, easily switching between the two distances to supplement his Irish 2,000 Guineas and St James's Palace Stakes wins with Eclipse glory, before dropping back a to a mile to land the Sussex Stakes.

Proven on heavy to good ground, the only slight question mark would be an ultra-quick surface, but Paddington is so unflappable he seemingly takes whatever comes his way in his stride.

He faces a new challenge in Mostahdaf – and he should not be underestimated – but

By MIKE FRANCIS

Paddington is very difficult to oppose, even at his likely skinny odds.

Castle Way is the pick in what appears to be a tricky renewal of the Sky Bet Great Voltigeur Stakes.

A case can be made for any of the five runners, but preference is for Charlie Appleby's charge following his narrow Bahrain Trophy success at Newmarket last time out.

Having his first start since winning the Listed Newmarket Stakes at the Guineas meeting in May, Castle Way had to dig deep to repel the challenge of Tower Of London, holding on by a head at the line over a mile and five furlongs.

Castle Way does not look an out-and-out stayer while market leader Gregory triumphed over 14 furlongs at Royal Ascot, so the Almanzor colt might just be too sharp over this mile-and-a-half trip.

Ballymount Boy found only Prix Morny winner Vandeeke too good at Goodwood, so his chance in the Tattersalls Acorn Stakes is obvious.

Winner of a Hamilton maiden at the second attempt, he outran his 25-1 odds to be beaten just a length at the Sussex track on what was very testing ground.

Quicker conditions are a question mark here, but moving up to seven furlongs looked likely to suit.

Grappa Nonino can follow up a recent Curragh success in the Sky Bet Stayers Handicap.

Ability

He prevailed over a mile and six furlongs earlier this month, but moving back up to an extended two miles is a positive and he sneaks in off a lowly weight, even with his 5lb penalty.

If Korker can get away on terms in the Sky Bet And Symphony Group Handicap, he could take some beating for Karl Burke.

The four-year-old has plenty of ability but his tendency to start slowly can prove costly, as it did when chasing home subsequent Listed winner Regional back in May.

He has appeared a bit better in that respect of late though, so perhaps his time is approaching.

Stablemate Pillow Talk can make it a double on the day in the IRE Incentive, It Pays To Buy Irish Fillies' Handicap.

A previous York Listed winner she remains pretty unexposed off a mark of 91.

Ziggy Queen can finally shed her maiden tag in the Sky Bet Nursery Handicap, after placing in each of her three maiden and novice runs.

Celtic at a crossroads after Killie knockout

HOOPS CAPTAIN McGREGOR WANTS MASSIVE RESPONSE TO CUP SHOCK

CALLUM McGREGOR
spoke of Celtic being at a “crossroads” following their shock Viaplay Cup exit to Kilmarnock on Sunday.

The Hoops captain did not like what he witnessed from last season’s treble winners at Rugby Park, where Marley Watkins’ second-half goal sparked an unlikely post-mortem into Celtic’s last-16 demise.

Boss Ange Postecoglou left for Tottenham at the end of the season after completing the clean sweep and Jota and Carl Starfelt have also gone, while returning manager Brendan Rodgers was without Alistair Johnston, Cameron Carter-Vickers, Reo Hatate and Oh Hyeon-gyu for the trip to Ayrshire.

Rodgers gave a debut to Swedish defender Gustaf Lagerbielke alongside fellow new signing Maik Nawrocki, with a first start for summer recruit Odin Thiago Holm, while another new face, Yang Hyun-jun, came off the bench.

The exit from a cup

By ANDY MILLOM

competition Celtic have won six times in the last seven years stung McGregor, and the Scotland midfielder recalled a 1-0 cinch Premiership defeat at Livingston in September 2021 – a fourth loss in five games under Postecoglou which left them trailing leaders Rangers by four points, before they recovered to win the title and League Cup.

McGregor said: “We didn’t have enough quality. I think that was evident to see. We started hitting long passes, which is not us. I don’t mean good passes in terms of trying to play in behind, it was just sort of launching the ball and hoping for the best.”

“That’s disappointing, that we don’t stick to the principles that we know work for us.”

“It’s a massive reminder that in cup football if you don’t turn up on the day you have absolutely no right to think that you can just come and win games of football.”

“Probably because our cup record has been so good that is what everyone thinks, that you just roll up and it happens. It never happens like that.”

“Firstly we have to look internally, us as players. Did we do enough? The answer is no. We have to learn from it and make sure it doesn’t snowball into two results, three results, four results.”

“We have to find the answers quickly and find a way to settle this new group of players. I think that is maybe what you get with a new group which is just at its infancy.”

“I recall back to two years ago at this point, or slightly later, into September, when we lost at Livingston and it was much the same.”

“Now we are at a crossroads in this group as well. We have lost a lot of key players, a lot of big players for us, so we have to find a new team.”

“We have to find a settled team and then go back to the principles that make us a good team.”

“You will get bad results and it’s how you handle that, how you stand up and be counted in the coming days and weeks.”

“Again, it’s just reinforcing the work we are doing on the training ground.”

“Trying to settle everybody as quickly as we can, settle into the pattern and the rhythm that we want to play games in.”

Pressure

“With this result we all have to realise that we have to go pretty quickly. It was similar at this point two years ago when we put ourselves under pressure.”

“Now you have to react, you have to find something within yourself and within the team and within the group that sparks us into life.”

“Because that’s what we need to do now.”

He won gold at the 2017 World Championships.

GUNNERS BOSS NOT HAPPY WITH REFEREE MIKEL ARTETA TOOK RED CARD

Arteta says players need to carry a stopwatch to avoid getting sent off

MIKEL Arteta may have “loved” Arsenal’s narrow win at Crystal Palace but believes a stopwatch may be needed to iron out inconsistencies in time-wasting after Takehiro Tomiyasu fell foul of the rules.

The Gunners won 1-0 in south London as Martin Odegaard’s second-half penalty proved the difference.

Japan defender Tomiyasu was sent off at Selhurst Park, picking up a soft yellow card for a foul on Jordan Ayew just seven minutes after being cautioned for perceived time-wasting at a throw-in.

The new remit for officiating this season has called, among other changes, for a clamp down on time-wasting but Arteta believes the timing did not add up on Tomiyasu’s booking.

Asked about the rule changes, the Spaniard replied: “For me it is not an issue. The referee makes that call.”

“And we are consistent with that. They explained it. The only thing we are asking for is consistency. If not we need to play with a stopwatch to understand what is it and what is not.”

Arteta did not agree when told Tomiyasu had waited 23 seconds to take the throw-in before being cautioned – replying: “It wasn’t.”

“I think it was about eight seconds. We might have to play with a stopwatch.”

“This is the standards.”

Despite the red card, Arsenal made it two wins from two following on from the opening-day victory over Nottingham Forest.

Odegaard stepped up to tuck away a penalty after Eddie Nketiah – who had hit a post in the first half – was tripped by Palace goalkeeper Sam Johnstone.

“I loved it, absolutely loved it,” Arteta said of the win.

“It’s a really difficult place to come, we played the way we wanted to play 11 against 11. We dominated the game, we created enough chances, we missed two very, very huge chances.”

Focus

“We scored the penalty and then we have to play half an hour with 10 men. It’s a conflict we didn’t prepare for but we had to adapt and the players were fantastic.”

“I don’t think we gave anything away. The subs were great, the way they came out, the concentration, the focus, how much they helped the team, the coaching.”

“They changed momentum in many occasions of the game. So really happy.”

Eagles boss Roy Hodgson was in a reflective mood and felt his side put in a good showing despite coming out of the contest with no points.

“I would be tempted to say we deserved something from the game,” he said.

“When they went down to 10 men we gave it our best shot but they are a top-quality team and they were able to defend the efforts we had.”

“They got a lot of bodies around the goalkeepers so we couldn’t get through the cordon but that is often the case.”

“There were very few disappointments in the game for me in terms of the Crystal Palace performance. On another day I think we would be feeling even happier and proud of ourselves.”

Only Man City and Brighton had won their opening two games but the Gunners joined them on six points after the narrow success.

Palace – unchanged from their own victory at Sheffield United a week ago – were fast out of the blocks, Aaron Ramsdale making a low stop to keep out an Eberechi Eze drive as the hosts built up a head of steam.

Cheick Doucoure then flashed a speculative effort wide as Arsenal struggled to get a foothold.

The visitors started to see more of the ball and Eddie Nketiah was unfortunate to see his shot come back off a post after beating Sam Johnstone in the Palace goal.

With the game opening up, both sides had chances, with Jordan Ayew almost capitalising on a poor William Saliba touch, only for the France defender to makes amends with a fine, last-ditch tackle.

Arsenal went down the other end and Nketiah wasted a gilt-edged opportunity as he failed to execute a deft lob over Johnstone.

Odegaard was next to come close to breaking the deadlock, his curled strike from outside the box tipped over by Johnstone.

Arsenal would eventually hit the front soon after the restart, Gabriel Martinelli's quick free-kick playing in Nketiah, who went to ground under pressure from the sliding Johnstone.

Ref David Coote pointed to the spot and the decision survived a VAR check for a foul by Thomas Partey, with Odegaard making no mistake as he sent Johnstone the wrong way from 12 yards.

Odegaard made another couple of controversial calls showing a yellow card to Tomiyasu for time-wasting at a throw-in before dismissing the full-back seven minutes later for a soft foul on Ayew.

Arteta reacted by introducing Gabriel Magalhaes, while Jorginho replaced Nketiah as Arsenal shut up shop in the closing stages.

Jakub Kiwior and fit-again Oleksandr Zinchenko added even more steel to the defensive unit.

It proved just enough to keep Palace at bay, the Arsenal rearguard high-fiving and celebrating every challenge and clearance as they hung on to secure the win.

HAGI HEADS FOR RANGERS EXIT

RANGERS manager Michael Beale admits Ianis Hagi's future could be up for discussion before the transfer deadline after the midfielder dropped out of the club's Champions League squad.

Rabbi Matondo has replaced the Romanian in the squad, while Ben Davies has returned to training to replace Ridvan Yilmaz.

Beale said: "Ben comes back in, Yilmaz is not fit, and I feel that Rabbi in the last couple of weeks has shown a good face in terms of his speed and directness."

"No issue with Ianis. Ianis, as he put in his own words, is very happy when he's playing football and he missed football for a year."

"He wants to play as a starter week in, week out, so it may be that between now and the end of the window we look at that."

REAL IN FOR KYLI

Madrid make £105m Mbappe move

REAL Madrid want Kylian Mbappe in their squad NOW!

The Spanish giants were expected to wait 12 months to sign the French superstar on a free from Paris St Germain.

But they don't want to wait until his contract runs out – especially with Saudi clubs sniffing around the 24-year-old. And they are willing to pay a whopping £105m to get the deal done before the summer transfer window closes on September 1.

But the Frenchman are digging in and want Mbappe to stay this season and have one more tilt at winning them their first ever Champions League title.

They had BANNED him from training with the first-team squad but welcomed him back from the cold for their second league game of the season at the weekend.

PSG boss Luis Enrique is hopeful of keeping his prime asset but Mbappe has made it clear that he won't sign a new deal and wants the Madrid move now.

The Spaniards are expected to make their move later this week.
